The Mithila Heritage

Mithila, one of the world's oldest cultural civilisations, is the fertile heartland of Bihar, India. For centuries, this region has nurtured a unique agricultural tradition, producing some of India's finest Makhana (Fox Nuts) from its pristine wetlands and water bodies. MithilaOne is deeply rooted in this heritage, sourcing directly from the districts that define excellence in Makhana cultivation.

Darbhanga

Core Makhana cultivation zone with generations of farming expertise

Madhubani

Historic agricultural district known for premium lotus seed production

Purnia

High-yield sourcing region with rich alluvial soil

Katihar

Strategic wetland belt for consistent quality supply

Saharsa

Traditional farming communities with authentic processing methods

Supaul

Emerging sourcing hub with strong farmer partnerships

Sourced from the heartland of India's finest Makhana production. Every batch carries the legacy of Mithila's agricultural excellence.
